WE TAKE CARE OF NATURE

Sustainable development means production that respects the environment and natural resources, in full compliance with socio-economic policy standards.

ET GROUP operates in accordance with European standards UNI EN ISO 9001 for quality management and UNI EN ISO 14001 for environmental protection. This reflects the management's voluntary commitment to conducting business with minimal environmental impact.

Our environmental policy is integrated into every stage of production and the selection of specialized raw materials, including premium wood, water-based paints, and non-toxic adhesives.

Combined with advanced purification, filtration, and recycling systems, these efforts guarantee the safety and sustainability of our entire production process.

The New Classic Wood collection features exquisite neoclassical doors designed for interiors characterized by understated luxury, harmonious proportions, and the nobility of natural materials.

The smooth geometry of the door leaves, elegant decorative accents, and deep texture of solid wood create a look where the door becomes a defining architectural element of the space.

TEANO is a perfect balance between classical elegance and modern minimalism. The deep shade of stained wood with a pronounced natural texture becomes a luxurious accent in the interior, adding status and warmth to the space.

The imitation of classic panels is masterfully shaped using refined decorative mouldings. This adds visual volume to the doors without unnecessary bulkiness. The casing is decorated with an identical moulding that echoes the decor of the leaf itself. Thanks to this, the door unit looks like a single, impeccably designed architectural element.

PALERMO

PALERMO — exquisite solid wood doors in the New Classic style, combining the nobility of natural materials with understated elegance of forms. The central glass insert works with light, adding lightness and soft natural light to the interior. Harmonious proportions, deep wood texture, and a concise paneled composition make the PALERMO model a versatile solution for modern classic spaces.

The NOVARA line is the embodiment of respectability and calm confidence. Created for those who value the substance of materials, these doors are crafted from select solid wood. Every line of the facade emphasizes the nobility of natural timber, bringing a special energy of warmth and reliability to the interior.

The «New Classic» style in NOVARA models is revealed through deep volumetric panels and balanced geometry. Models with textured milling deserve special attention, as they add a modern rhythm and visual depth to the classic look.

NEW CLASSIC

The NEW CLASSIC line, which has topped popularity ratings for years in its painted finish, is now available in its highest expression — crafted from natural solid wood.

These doors are for those who seek no compromise between proven style and impeccable material quality. The classic proportions, which have become a benchmark, are now complemented by the living energy and unique texture of real timber. This combination makes the interior truly «expensive» not only in appearance but also in feel.

IMPERIA

The IMPERIA line follows a monumental style combined with jewelry-like precision of details. Crafted from natural solid wood, these doors create a sense of a reliable fortress while remaining a sophisticated design object.

The uniqueness of the line lies in the integrity of the artistic vision: the stepped casing perfectly replicates the styling of the panel mouldings, creating a single multifaceted relief. A modern accent is added by a refined metal insert, which delicately emphasizes the wood texture and adds a noble luster to the leaf.

The familiar and beloved design of the ANTIC line has gained a new identity in a noble solid wood finish, elevating it to a completely new level of aesthetics.

The neoclassical style in ANTIC models manifests through a refined interplay of lines and harmonious panel proportions. These are doors that shape the character of an interior, adding depth and status thanks to smooth lines and the living texture of real timber.

The CORSICA product line has become a modern reimagining of the popular CORSO model. While retaining the best features of its prototype, this line has acquired a more progressive and high-tech appearance. Now, the beloved forms are realized in natural solid wood with the addition of accent details that match current design trends.

The main highlight of the models is the dynamic vertical milling of the panels, which adds rhythm and visual height to the leaf. A refined metal insert creates a stylish contrast with the noble texture of the wood, while the use of Flutes glass perfectly continues the linear relief of the door, creating a unified composition of light and shadow.

RAVENNA

RAVENNA is a manifesto of confident style and volumetric design. These natural solid wood doors are created for interiors where every element must be expressive and significant. Thanks to the combination of massive forms and subtle accents, the model looks both prestigious and modern.

The main feature of the line is the interplay of volume. Massive panel moldings and a substantial casing create a powerful architectural framework, which is effectively complemented by delicate vertical milling. The final touch is a thin metal insert that adds graphicity to the leaf and emphasizes the premium character of the collection.

The ASCONA line is the embodiment of modern classics, now available in natural solid wood. While retaining its recognizable architectuality, the model has gained a new breath of life thanks to the natural energy of timber.

The main feature of the updated line is the rectilinear wide molding, which rises massively above the leaf. Unlike traditional rounded forms, the ASCONA molding has a sharp, graphic bevel. This design technique creates a distinctive interplay of edges and emphasizes the solidity of the construction.

SINDIA is the embodiment of aristocratic elegance, now revealed in natural solid wood. Combining traditional craftsmanship with modern visual solutions, these doors are the ideal choice for neoclassical enthusiasts.

The core of the design is a wide figured baguette with soft, sophisticated curves that create a rich interplay of light on the leaf. The model gains its special character through contrast: the lush relief of the molding is balanced by a thin flat panel. This combination brings modern conciseness to the classic look, making SINDIA doors a harmonious addition to both luxurious apartments and understated modern interiors.

The RIMINI line is the embodiment of classic architectural aesthetics in a modern execution. Crafted from natural solid wood, this line brings a sense of softness, harmony, and timeless style to the interior.

The main visual focus of the collection is the arched panels. Refined radiused lines add a special plasticity to the door leaf and visually «soften» the space.

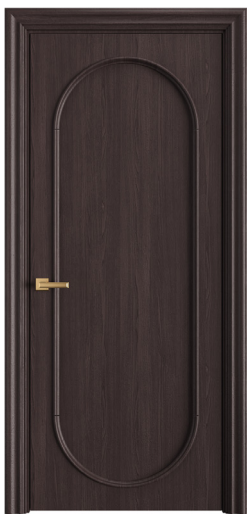

It is the perfect solution for those who seek to move away from strict rectangular forms in favor of a more sophisticated and romantic design.

The SICILIA door line is the choice for those who strive to go beyond standards. Crafted from natural solid wood, these doors embody the idea of «new luxury,» where natural monumentality meets industrial chic.

The main visual focus of the line is the combination of an exceptionally wide panel molding and an accent metal insert. Such a large-scale design creates a deep architectural relief, while the wide metal strip adds graphicity and a modern character to the leaf. These are doors that do not just complement the interior but become its primary architectural feature.

The TEMZA line, well-known for its distinctive style, is now revealed anew in a natural solid wood execution. These are doors that bring the nobility of the Victorian era into the interior, combining historical grandeur with a modern aesthetic of performance.

The wide baguette, which stands out prominently above the leaf, and the complex figured panel create a rich interplay of light and shadow, much appreciated by professionals. The composition is complemented by a massive casing with figured milling, which is finished at the base with a decorative «plinth block» (shoe). This detail not only adds architectural completeness but also makes TEMZA a benchmark of solidity and attention to detail.
